Prof. Igbasan Visits UI VC, Seeks Collaboration

The Vice-Chancellor of McPherson University (McU), Seriki Sotayo, Ogun State, Professor Francis Adegbaye Igbasan, has expressed his administration's readiness to partner with great institutions such as the University of Ibadan (UI).

He made this known on Friday, August 5, 2022 during a courtesy visit to the Vice-Chancellor of Nigeria's premier university.

Professor Igbasan, who eulogized the University's VC for his determination and commitment to academic excellence, said McPherson University is ready to partner with the University of Ibadan due to its track record of excellence in the last 74 years!

He stressed his desire for a robust partnership that would help, among other things, to further project McPherson University and its Nursing Science programme.

On his part, the Vice-Chancellor of UI, Professor Kayode Adebawale, thanked Professor Igbasan for the initiative which he described as very noble and welcoming.

Professor Igbasan who assumed duty barely 5 days ago (August 1, 2022), said that his goal was to expand the frontiers of learning and research and to position McPherson University among the best universities not only in Nigeria but in Africa.

"We are ready to partner with great universities such as the University of Ibadan in important disciplines such as Nursing Science and many others. My administration is running with a grand vision of repositioning our University as one of the best", he asserted.

Similarly, McU's new helmsman also paid a visit to the Provost and the Deputy Provost of the College of Medicine, University of Ibadan.

The VC declared that the visit was "very positive" and that the collaboration would assist McPherson University especially with its Nursing Science Programme.
